

Mary's House for Older Adults, Inc.: Creating LGBTQ/SGL Friendly Environments Internship Program

Mary's House Internship Program is an opportunity designed for undergraduates and graduate-level students to learn about and contribute to the vision and mission of Mary's House to create an environment that celebrates the life and experiences of older adults, specifically lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) older adults over 60 years old. Students are expected to apply ethical and professional conduct, oral and written communication, problem solving, the ability to work effectively with others, listen and demonstrate respect toward the input of others and take a leadership role when appropriate. To apply, read instructions below and forward your email to drimani@maryshousedc.org.

Overview

Interns will be assigned substantive projects and tasks providing research, administrative, programmatic and staff assistance to MARY'S HOUSE executive team members, members of the Board of Directors, MARY'S HOUSE staff members and MARY'S HOUSE organizational members, partners and collaborators. Interns are provided the opportunity to learn about careers in public administration, public health and nonprofit organizations, government, academia and other related public service areas. The MARY'S HOUSE internship program will provide interns with dynamic work, learning and networking experiences while exposing participants to the diverse communities along with exposing them to the functions and operations of a Washington, DC nonprofit with local and national reach. MARY'S HOUSE interns can have several backgrounds, including but not limited to: law, business/management, communications, public policy, public health, economics, finance, human resources, planning, social services, public administration, and social media.

Students selected to be MARY'S HOUSE interns must meet all the academic requirements of their conferring institutions and present documentation to this affect. MARY'S HOUSE does not discriminate on the basis of race, ethnicity, religion, income, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, age, disability, socioeconomic status or any other protected classes and/or human rights protections. Interns will work on a variety of projects/tasks and have the opportunity to work closely with a wide diversity of professionals.

Examples of potential tasks include:

- Program planning
- Research and analysis
- Data compilation and entry
- Communications/Social media
